Welcome Chicago area WJG radio listeners

Immuno Laboratories, Inc.

A 25 year ongoing study reveals that 95% of the population has what is known as a "type two" toxic reaction (IgG response) to common everyday foods that you eat regularly. Unfortunately the foods that cause this toxic shock vary widely according to your individual system. And "type two" reactions are delayed reactions (explained fully in this report), so they are very difficult to detect on your own.
